Every Drop Adds Up

Because of the vast size of our state and the diversity of our climate, Texans are almost guaranteed the constant contradiction of simultaneous flood and drought. That is why the state must address them concurrently. We must continue to plan for the next drought and for our future water supply needs even when recovering from flood.

The 2017 State Water Plan tells us that Texas faces significant water shortages over the next 50 years if steps are not taken to conserve and develop additional water supplies. The easiest and most cost-effective way to help ensure we have enough water for the future is to conserve the water we currently have.
