Other Resources

TxDOT, is a regional planning lead agency, and wants to know your perspective regarding the existence or lack of scheduled intercity bus services in your area, and any service offered in your area that connects with or has potential to feed into existing intercity bus services. TxDOT has engaged KFH Group to conduct an intercity bus study. The KFH Group is asking for input about rural intercity bus needs in Texas through stakeholder surveys and regional meetings. The KFH Group knows that regional planners recognize interconnectivity of services across municipal lines and can provide a local or regional perspective on potential or identified needs for providing scheduled transportation services to connect small town populations to larger urban areas and interstate services.
